

John Larson’s ceramic sculptures to be featured at the SW MN Arts Council Gallery

The Southwest Minnesota Arts Council Gallery will feature the ceramic sculpture of John Larson of Milan, MN from March 5 through May 1, 2015.

Larson says, “I make sculptures, paintings, photos, drawings, and functional objects. My ceramic sculptures are an investigation into representations of environmental balance as well idealized preferences and depictions of ideas that can only be realized in sculpture.

“I create suggestions of familiar objects that are altered or detached from their natural function. I am motivated by the limitations of native clays, the demanding wood fire process, and by the desire to communicate clearly.”

Larson discovered clay at age fourteen as a means of expression and as an alternative way of exploring fundamental physics. He has studied at Utah State University and under contemporary ceramist Oh Hyang Jong in South Korea.

Larson fires an Anagama kiln and maintains his studio in Milan, Minnesota. He uses porcelain and native clays with other indigenous materials to create his works which can be found in national and international collections.

The public is invited to visit the SMAC art gallery for a reception from 5:00 - 7:00 pm on Thursday, March 5, 2015. Enjoy live music during the reception. Regular Gallery hours are Monday - Friday, 8:00 am to noon and 1:00 to 4:30 pm.

Rural Arts & Culture Summit announces keynote speaker & opens registration

The Rural Arts and Culture Summit, "From the Ground Up: Cultivating Creative People and Places" (June 2-4, 2015 at the University of Minnesota-Morris) has announced keynote speaker Theresa Secord.

Secord is a traditional Penobscot basketweaver who founded the Maine Indian Basketmakers Alliance (MIBA) in 1993. In 2003, Secord was the first U.S. citizen to win the Women's World Summit Foundation prize for Creativity in Rural Life, awarded at the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland. Secord's work focuses on preserving the tradition of her tribe's basketweaving. Through her efforts, she has led partnerships between her tribe, state and federal forest services, and the University of Maine to preserve the ash forests in their region, while also launching intergenerational programs to pass basketweaving skills down to the next generation, and developing economic strategies to help artists sell and promote their work.

Other highlights of the Summit include:

- A conversation with rural practitioners, artists, and leaders about the role of arts and culture in the rural narrative, facilitated by Dave Peters, the news director of Minnesota Public Radio's Ground Level Project.
- A presentation from The Art of the Rural's Matthew Fluharty, and the Rural Policy Research Institute's Chuck Fluharty (yes, they're related) about the national rural arts and culture movement.
- "Stories from the Field," an interactive theater performance created by the site-specific, community driven theater company PlaceBase Productions based on a series of story swaps held throughout the state prior to the Summit.

Early bird registration rates are available through April 22, 2015. Or, register by March 12 to have the chance to win free tickets to Bush Connect, a leadership networking event designed to build stronger and more meaningful connections between leaders. In 2013, the Summit sold out almost 6 weeks early. While the Summit has worked with the University to allow more attendees this year, they also expect even more interest, so sign up today at www.ruralartsandculturesummit.com/registration/.

A SMAC grant to attend the Summit is available, with a simple application form on the SMAC website, www.swmnarts.org. The SMAC grant will reimburse organizations or individuals for:

- The early bird registration fee
- Up to $75 per night for lodging
- Mileage at $.40/mile (carpooling is strongly encouraged to allow as many people as possible to participate)
- A $50/day stipend for participants who have to take time off work to attend.

Awards will be made on a first come, first served basis, so get your application in early. Funding is made possible by the voters of Minnesota thanks to a legislative appropriation from the arts and cultural heritage fund.

The Rural Arts and Culture Summit is a partnership between the Center for Small Towns, Springboard for the Arts, the Forum of Regional Arts Councils of Minnesota, and the University of Minnesota-Morris. Sponsors include the McKnight Foundation, the Bush Foundation, and the Minnesota State Arts Board/Arts & Cultural Heritage Fund.

Call for artists: "POP < 5000"

The Edward J. & Helen Jane Morrison Gallery at the University of Minnesota Morris announces a call for entries for a summer exhibition, POP < 5000, in conjunction with the Rural Arts and Culture Summit.

The exhibit seeks submissions from contemporary artists who currently reside in Minnesota communities with populations less than or equal to 5,000 residents. The exhibit will survey artists working in a range of mediums and subject matter. The opening is planned for June 2, 2015 from 6:30-9:30pm, in conjunction with the welcome reception for the Rural Arts and Cultural Summit, and the exhibit will continue through June 30, 2015.

Submission Deadline: April 1, 2015. Begin by filling out the following form online at <http://z.umn.edu/pop5000>. For more information, contact curator Michael Eble, at meble@morris.umn.edu or call (320) 589-6285.

SMAC seeks nominations for 2015 Prairie Disciple award

John Voit of Ghent receives the 2014 Prairie Disciple Award from SMAC Executive Director Greta Murray.

The Southwest Minnesota Arts Council is seeking nominations of arts advocates from the SW Minnesota region for its 2015 Prairie Disciple award.

The Prairie Disciple Award recognizes an individual who has been instrumental in promoting the arts, whose activities and involvement have substantially contributed to the arts in the 18-county area of southwestern Minnesota. The activities involved may have taken place within the past few years or be a lifetime of contribution. Last year, SMAC accepted nominations of teachers/educators only, but this year any arts supporter may be nominated.

Since the accomplishments of these individuals are often not widely known or appreciated, SMAC hopes to raise the profile of the arts in our communities and throughout our region by recognizing them publicly.

Recent recipients of the Prairie Disciple Award include John Voit, Ghent; Jerry Deuschle, Luverne; Tricia Mikle, Worthington; Nancy Geiger, Willmar; and Ruth McKinney, Walnut Grove. Visit our website for a complete list of past recipients.

Nomination instructions and forms are available on the SW MN Arts Council website at www.swmnarts.org. The nomination deadline is Wednesday, April 15, 2015.
